FOUR MINUTES AGO, KILO-FOUR PINGED ON A BOGEY TAKING OFF FROM THE ROOFTOP OF THE RESIDENCE.
HEADING WAS DUE NORTH, ACCELERATION AND CLIMB RATE CONSISTENT WITH THE KRYPTONIAN FLIGHT PROFILE.
IF YOU'RE ABOUT TO TELL ME SUPERMAN HAS COME BACK TO EARTH, LIEUTENANT, I'M GOING TO WANT A DAMN GOOD REASON AS TO HOW WE MISSED THAT.

Okay, It's Peanut Butter Jelly time!

You know, some things just belong together, so when we thought about bringing back the classic DC Comics title ADVENTURE COMICS the topic immediately turned to what character should be featured in the relaunch of this series. We consider the return of ADVENTURE a momentous event, and we needed headliners worthy of this relaunch.

Now, you'd think this would be a heated debate over the course of several weeks with Editorial and management splitting into several distinct camps. After all, there were so many great characters to appear in this venerable title over the decades it was published, you'd imagine that everyone would have a different favorite.

There would be the Supergirl contingent — good choice, but she seems to be doing extremely well in her own book right now, thank you very much! And you'd guess some voices would be raised in support of Aquaman (if not for the fact that he's currently dead and on the path of BLACKEST NIGHT). And there'd be some discussion about Sandman (the old version); Spectre (the current version); or Starman (pick a version), but again, that was not the case. All through the approval process there was always one clear choice. Or was there?

For over ten years SUPERBOY and SUPERBOY AND THE LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES ruled the pages of ADVENTURE COMICS, and it was the title in which the Legion first appeared. It only seemed natural that they would be the headliners when the series returned. Couple of small problems. Superboy, the current version, was also currently dead (like our good friend Aquaman), and the Legionnaires were spread out through time with multiple versions of each character running around. But since this is comics, these weren't problems without solutions.

FINAL CRISIS: LEGION OF THREE WORLDS #4 took care of the Superboy problem as it returned Conner Kent to the land of the living, while LEGION OF THREE WORLDS #5 (in production and back on track) resolves the issue of the multiple Legions once and for all. So, with those two hurdles out of the way, it only makes sense that this August heralds the return of ADVENTURE COMICS STARRING SUPERBOY AND THE LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES. Ah, but there's a catch. Since we got such a great response to our second features in a number of our ongoing series, ADVENTURE COMICS will have the added pages to split-feature Superboy (written and drawn by the incredible team of Geoff Johns and Francis Manapul) and Legion of Super-Heroes (written by Geoff Johns and newcomer Mike Shoemaker with art by Clayton Henry). Like I said, it's Peanut Butter Jelly time.

Enjoy.

Dear Reader,

I'm Rumblewick Spellwacker Hortimer B. I'm the right-hand cat to a WITCH named Hagatha Agatha and I'm contractually bound to shape her into the most well-rounded, disgustingly terrible witch she can be. Sound cool, or what???

Do you want to be a ballerina like Hagatha Agatha?
Go to www.rumblewick.com for details.

Unfortunately, Haggy would much rather be a normal little girl than do things like boil frogs and frighten children. And here's my latest problem: Haggy Aggy wants to go to ballet school!! I ask you, is that what a witch who WANTS to be a witch does? NO!

I've detailed my daily suffering in my diary, Rumblewick's Diary: My Unwilling Witch Goes to Ballet School. Once you read it, you will have a clue as to why I'm going totally bats on a broomstick.

Yours Truly,
